

PRIVACY POLICY

Information collected via the website

On the web site users can voluntarily submit personal data to obtain access to certain types of information about Nortek AS and our products. Nortek does not under any circumstances collect personal data concerning users, without the users' knowledge, and consent.

What we do with your information

The information collected is only intended for the use of the Nortek group and its companies or its representatives. Furthermore the personal data could be used to contact you in order to provide or improve our products and services, or informing you about a product that might correspond to your profile.

Disclosure to third parties

Nortek will not share the personal data collected on the web site with third parties, nor sell it to other entities for commercial use.

Protection

You should take the necessary precautions so as to safeguard against loss, theft and misuse of password and login name. Personal information that is posted on the forum has become public information.

Other websites

The Nortek website contains links to third parties' websites. These sites are not subject to Nortek's privacy policy, but to their own, and may differ substantially from the one set out here.

We may need to update or change our privacy policy, so stop by and check for updates on this page from time to time.
